ın	ne: Date:
	Underline the sentence that is punctuated correctly (L.4.2b).
	A. "I really need your help, Charlie", he said.
	B. She replied, "There's no way I am going in there."
	C. Mom looked at Dad and said What is wrong with her"?
	D. Stop doing that. It's really hurting me said Joe to Sarah.
	Rewrite the incorrect sentences above with the correct punctue tion (L.4.2b).
	Rewrite this paragraph with dialogue to help the reader understand what the characters are thinking or feeling. Use the understand what the characters are thinking or feeling. Use the correct punctuation with your dialogue (W.4.3a and L.4.2b).
	understand what the characters are thinking or feeling. Use the understand what the characters are thinking or feeling. Use the correct punctuation with your dialogue (W.4.3a and L.4.2b). Suddenly, the door slammed with a loud bang. Ella and Jack jumped up from the table and ran to the door to try to open it They pulled and pulled, but the door would not open. They were
	understand what the characters are thinking or feeling. Use the correct punctuation with your dialogue (W.4.3a and L.4.2b). Suddenly, the door slammed with a loud bang. Ella and Jack jumped up from the table and ran to the door to try to open it They pulled and pulled, but the door would not open. They were locked inside. Ella started to cry. Jack started to work on a plant.
	understand what the characters are thinking or feeling. Use the correct punctuation with your dialogue (W.4.3a and L.4.2b). Suddenly, the door slammed with a loud bang. Ella and Jack jumped up from the table and ran to the door to try to open it They pulled and pulled, but the door would not open. They were
	understand what the characters are thinking or feeling. Use the correct punctuation with your dialogue (W.4.3a and L.4.2b). Suddenly, the door slammed with a loud bang. Ella and Jack jumped up from the table and ran to the door to try to open it They pulled and pulled, but the door would not open. They were locked inside. Ella started to cry. Jack started to work on a plant.
	understand what the characters are thinking or feeling. Use the correct punctuation with your dialogue (W.4.3a and L.4.2b). Suddenly, the door slammed with a loud bang. Ella and Jack jumped up from the table and ran to the door to try to open it They pulled and pulled, but the door would not open. They were locked inside. Ella started to cry. Jack started to work on a plant.
	understand what the characters are thinking or feeling. Use the correct punctuation with your dialogue (W.4.3a and L.4.2b). Suddenly, the door slammed with a loud bang. Ella and Jack jumped up from the table and ran to the door to try to open it They pulled and pulled, but the door would not open. They were locked inside. Ella started to cry. Jack started to work on a plant.
	understand what the characters are thinking or feeling. Use the correct punctuation with your dialogue (W.4.3a and L.4.2b). Suddenly, the door slammed with a loud bang. Ella and Jack jumped up from the table and ran to the door to try to open it They pulled and pulled, but the door would not open. They were locked inside. Ella started to cry. Jack started to work on a plant.
	understand what the characters are thinking or feeling. Use the correct punctuation with your dialogue (W.4.3a and L.4.2b). Suddenly, the door slammed with a loud bang. Ella and Jack jumped up from the table and ran to the door to try to open it They pulled and pulled, but the door would not open. They were locked inside. Ella started to cry. Jack started to work on a plant.